The visiting delegates were their smartest gowns for the occasion, and the reception at the White House, while informal, was declared one of the most brilliant of the social functions of the congress. The morning program today was given over largely to routine matters. J. Franklin Jameson, Ph. D. of the Carnegie Institute, made a brief address relating to the subject of historical research work by the Daughters.

Mrs. Elroy M. Avery, editor of the American monthly magazine, read a re-port, and was followed by Mrs. Egbert R. Jones, who made a report as chairman of the publications committee.

As * result of the State meetings of the Daughters, held last night, both the Scott and Story factions assert to-day their confidence in victory at the electon tomorrow. The Scott adher-ents are enthusiastically claiming a large majority. They are particularly pleased at the fact that Mrs. Scott's home State, Illinois, will cast its entire vote for the re-election of the president general, and that New York State is sharply divided on the ques-tion of casting its ballot for Mrs. Story, tion of casting its ballot for Mrs. Story, who is a native of the Empire State.

Last night the States of Kentucky, Ohio, Tennessee, lowa, and Michigan, all of which at the last election gave many votes to Mrs. Story, instructed their delegations to vote their entire strength for Mrs. Scott.

The Vermont delegation went for Mrs. Story last night. The District of Columbia is almost evenly divided for the two candidates, Mrs. Lockwood, the Story caudidate for vice president general, being elected last night over Mrs. Woodbury Pulsifer, the Scott candidate by a small majority. R. election this year is Mrs. Hoover, wife of William D. Hoover, president of the National Savings and Trust Company of Washington. Though making her residence here, Mrs. Hoover is a member of the Luther Reeve Chapter, D. A. R., of Rome, Ohio, which chapter is unique in that every one of its members is a direct descendant of Luther Reeve, of Revolutionary days. The chapter is, therefore, composed entirely of cousins. This Luther Reeve for whom Mrs. Hoover's chapter is named, was one of many Revolutionary prisoners on the battleship Jersey. To any of these prisoners who should succeed in throwing a famous wrestler on the ship, the English soldiers promised to grant freedom, and Luther Reeve was the only man of sufficient physical prowess to overcome the wrestler. Mrs. Hoover stands for re-election as treasurer general of the national society, and her friends enthusiastically declare that the magnificent report read by her yesterday morning at the congress is sufficient to entitle her to become the unanimous choice of the Daughters. Mrs. Hoover's report was as able as it was extensive, and showed that during the last year no ternal side Mrs. Gregory is a great-grandread by her yesterday morning at the showed that during the last year no less than $121,000 has passed through her hands. As treasurer general of the Daughters, she reported a balance on hand in the treasury of the current fund of $32,100.60. Of the building fund, $91,617.39 has been disbursed by Mrs. Hoover, and she has at present on hand a balance of $6,255.95. The able management of the money affairs of the society by Mrs. Hoover has been invaluable to the president general in her great work of supervising the completion of Memorial Continental Hall.

Mrs. Hoover is youthful and handome, and combines with these qualities unusual personal magnetism.

Few of the delegates know that this little woman is Miss Martha Berry, founder of the Berry Industrial School for Mountain Boys and Girls, and one of the best known women in America. When Col. Theodore Roosevelt went to Georgia recently the especial object of his visit to that State was to pay a visit to Miss Berry's school, which, he afterward declared with characteristic enthusiasm, is doing the most unique and the greatest ducational work in America.

educational work in America.

The school is for the mountain whites, and is probably the only institution in the country which the children of the rich cannot enter. The training offered at the school for boys and girls is so fine that many wealthy parents with simple-life ideals have sought admission for their children, always with the same result. Miss Berry refuses to take them because she does not wish a single poor youth from the mountains crowded out. She has educated hundreds of young men from the most illiterate mountain region of the South, and has just added a girl's school to meet a pressing need.

Miss Berry is thoroughly at home on the platform, and has a rare gift for combining humor and pathos when telling of her work among the mountaineers of the South.

PHILIP LLOYD, GRANDSON OF MRS, JONES.

The following are some extracts from etters Dr. Caldwell has received: "I wish to thank you for the sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. My little grandson, Philip Lloyd, had suffered from stomach trouble: when I sent for the bottle of Syrup Pepsin he was suffering all the time and had an acute attack of gastritis. I gave him the medicine, which he said was 'nice,' (he is six years old), and by the time the bottle was empty, he was cured. I was so pleased that I want to tell you what a valuable remedy you have made."—A. Dr.'s Widow, Mrs. Elis-abeth R. Jones, 4125 Perry st., Chicago, Iil.

"I liked the sample of Syrup Pepsin so much that I sent at once to my druggist for two 5% bottles, so I have it in the house regularly. My children like to take it, which pleased me very much, as sometimes we have trouble in getting them to take other laxatives."—Chas. H. Reichert, 1101 Jamaica ave., Richmond Hill, L. I.

women in this country who gratefully acknowledge that they owe the present good health of their children to the timely use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The crying baby usually is constipated or suffers from intestinal trouble due to some error in diet. It needs no heroic measures—just a gentle laxative like Syrup Pepsin. A small dose of it will right the baby. It is a great laxative and digestant, pleasant-tasting and non-griping. No baby or child refuses it. Many mothers never give their children anything else, and they have robust children and no doctor's bills. It is a great oney saver as well as a great life saver. What are the facts? With all the bue and cry that we hear thrubut the country of the advance in wages, and the recent action of the most prominent corporations in this country in increasing the pay of their employees, what are the facts regarding the city of Washington?

Approximately sixty per cent (60%) of its employed people are in the service of the government, and not an advance of a penny has been made to their salaries for more than ten years Hence the purchasing power of these people is no dreater now than it ever was, and many of them who twenty years ago paid us $10.00 for a suft or an overcoat are in no better position to pay us any more at the present time than they were then. Furthermore, numbers of our customers who are in this position have asked us why we discontinued catering to their wants as fully as we had done in the past. Our only answer was that we were manufacturing garments of such high character that it was impossible to place them on sale at less than fifteen dollars, and that even this price yielded us but an exceedingly modest profit.
